It is learned that the Japanese have not bombed the Shang-(Chenju) Wireless Station which a Géneva message reported was not functioning. The situation at Chenju, however, is very obscure, but, it is believed, the Chinese operators either fled before the arrival of the Japanese or are not permitted to carry out their duties.

The Tokyo War Office, it is reliably reported, has instructed that troops are to continue attacks until an armistice has been agreed upon.

Our Own Correspondent likens Chapei to-day to what burning Moscow may have looked like when Napoleon captured it. He also reports that refugees are pouring into the foreign areas.

The strategical retreat effected by the Chinese troops has also been undertaken to test Japanese promises to cease hostilities provided the Chinese forces withdrew 20 kilometres from Shanghai.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Shanghai (9.58 a.m.), To-day.

As burning Moscow appeared to Napoleon on his Russian Campaign, so did Chapei appear to the Japanese, when they hoisted the flag of the Rising Sun on the North Station and the Commercial Press Building.

Shanghai has never witnessed such a phenomenal conflagration as that which was left in the wake of the Chinese retreat.

Thirty-five points were aflame and the whole formed one vast and glare which hung over the district, coating vivid sunset glow over the sky. Thousands of houses are gutted and inflammable materials are feeding, from time to time, the flames, which shoot up like leaping tongues. Chapei is now a veritable city of flames, and strenuous efforts are being made to prevent the spreading of the flames to Settlement limits.

Although the action by the Chinese in igniting the huge blaze indicated two days before that a general withdrawal might be contemplated before the actual retreat started, yet as sweeping — in nature was the evacuation that it took the Japanese completely by surprise.

Refugees are pouring into the foreign areas in Shanghai, and Shanghailanders heaved to-day their first sigh of relief for over a month.

The inadequacy of the present Post Office facilities in Kowloon, was stressed at the annual meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association held in St. Andrew's Church Hall on February 26. Criticism of Government's tardiness in carrying out necessary public work on the Peninsula was also voiced. The Chairman (Mr. F. C. Mow Fung) said that disappointment would be felt that there was not a more definite and substantial response to representations regarding the inadequacy of the Kowloon Hospital, the growing need of a new Post Office building, the more effective policing of Kowloon Tong, and the provision of fireprotection for rural districts.

A full report of the meeting is published in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

At the annual meeting of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation held on February 27, the Chairman (the Hon. Mr. C. S. Gordon Mackie) referred to the general world depression, and touched upon conditions all over the Far East. A detailed report of the proceedings is chronicled in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

On February 27, Communists raided Breaker-Point Lighthouse, at Swatow, and carried off a European, a Russian, two Chinese women, four children, and a cook. The light-house is situated on a headland 30 miles southwest of Swatow. A report of the outrage is given in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

Weather conditions, the worst experienced for many years, by racegoers, attended the closing programme of the Annual Meeting held at Happy Valley on February 27. The course was a veritable mud bath, and as was only to be expected times were not good, and the sport not exciting.

In spite of these conditions, there was a good crowd present, Cash Sweep figures were substantial, and dividends were favourable.

The most exciting event of the day, was witnessed in the last race, when in the final gallop, Lobster Bay (Mr. A. A. R. Botelho up) won by a whort head to pay the best dividend of the day, $163.70. The meeting is fully reported in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL. . .

Baby of the Team. Riosuke Nunoi, the baby of the team and the tallest and slimmest of them may perhaps be the greatest player of them all. He certainly has the most vicious service, with the second perhaps faster and better than the first. His forehand drive is hard and accurately hit, and his backhand, whilst not quite as reliable, is very effective. His volleying and smashing, even in singles, disproves the assertion that the Japanese are only good off the ground. Like the others, he is a great trier, and never gives up. He has not yet filled out, and this should help him in the future, though he is very fit. WHEAT

Secure Market and Enhanced Price.

MAIN OBJECTS.

Rugby, March 1. A further important measure, designed to improve the condition of agriculture, was considered in the House of Commons to-day, when the Minister for Agriculture introduced the Wheat Bill, the object of which is to provide wheatgrowers, within the United Kingdom, with a secure market and an enhanced price for home-grown wheat of millable quality without a subsidy from the Exchequer and without encouraging the extension | of wheat cultivation to land unsuitable for it.

Referring to the standard price, Sir John Gilmour said it was intended that every registered wheat-grower in the United Kingdom should be entitled to receive, at the end of each cereal year, a so-called deficiency payment, which would represent the difference, reckoned in the grower's certified sales, between an ascertained average price of home-grown millable wheat and the standard price of ten shillings a hundredweight, which was the equivalent of fortyfive shillings per quarter of five hundred and four pounds.

The Bill, he said, contained a provision for a review of the position in three years,

A limit of six million quarters would be imposed; in respect of which deficiency payment would be made in any one year,

Government did not anticipate permanent or general increase in bread prices as a result of the BIII. -British Wireless Service.

MOTH TABLETS

Red Diamond Moth Tablets whilst harmless to human beings and domestic animals, are the most effective destroyers of insect life known.

Their presence will not only render Wardrobes, Presses, etc., immune from Moths, but if scattered about rooms, they will keep them free from Flies and such pests as Cockroaches, Ants, Spiders, etc.

Red Diamond Moth Tablets are of greater potency than Naphthalene Balls, and have the added advantages of being non-inflammable and more volatile --a few moments' exposure to the air is sufficient to free anything with which they have been in contact, from their odour.

COSTLY SHIPPING FIRES.

The Marine Insurance Correspondent writes: Among the matters touched upon by Mr. S. D. Grundy, chairman at the annual meeting of the Liverpool Underwriters' Association, was the effect of world trade depression on shipping and the consequent reduction in premium income which marine insurance con-

Mr. Grundy characterised every! shipboard fire as "an absolute waste £1,000 to all parties concerned." While and admitting that the number of fires and the Albert Road was falling year by year, he added that during the past year there had been an epidemic of fires in passenger ships; and hinted that unless to the high rates of death duties shipowners and designers found a and the charitable gifts he had way to eliminate these costly fires, the rates on such vessels would have to be increased. Another matter on which he dwelt was the heavy shipments of gold which are causing underwriters anxiety in these days. He concluded by saying that Englishmen should be proud that at a time of grave international anxiety foreigners had great confidence in the security of the British Marine Insurance market, citing, in confirmation of this, the fact that in the darkest days the flow of insurance business to England from abroad had increased rather than decreased.

Ford's Enterprise in England.

Another great unit was added to the world-wide Ford activities a few days ago when the mammoth Dagenham plant of the Ford Motor Company, Ltd., of England, 18 miles from London on the Thames, produced its first Ford car. The new plant when fully in operation will supply Ford products to a large part of Europe. '

THE "AEROMOBILE."

Two German inventors have made what they call an "aeromobile," which is a motor-car driven by an air propeller. The air screw is not installed vertically however, but lies horizontally on the back part of the chassis. Above it are several parallel plane surfaces forming a sort of lattice-work arrangement, the angles of which can be altered. The air stream produced by the propeller breaks through these surfaces, providing the driving power. When the surfaces are perpendicular the car stops; when they lean back it moves forward; and when they are pushed forward the car moves backward.

hustling. Down into the combes of Devon and Cornwall, where the car at last quits the tar and climbs with strident hooter through the deep lanes. Here true motoring still lingers. The twists of the road limit vision to a few yards. The driver must be as alert as a night patrol in No Man's Land, for danger lurks in every furlong. But his crew, if they trust him adequately, can look overboard and revel in the eternal mystery of the road and the marvellous landscapes which bob up on either side, curtsey and disappear, only to yield in turn to fresh horizons with new colour

Then Autumn comes and brings the fog. The air is chill as we climb aboard, and though the road seemed wide enough when last our tyres trod it in full sun we are now helpless upon it. The headlamps merely serve to hang a great dazzling screen of golden light a few feet ahead of the radiator, and out they go. We change down to third-second-first. We are almost driving by the feel of the tyres. A front passenger has his window open and is anxiously barking "Port a little!" . . . "Starboard s little," as he sights the nearside hedge through a wet veil of grey. Raucous mechanical hoots emerge from an opalescent yellow radiance shead. He stops. We stop.
